Report of 'on the job' training undertaking by the students of
Department of Political Science

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

2023-24

PREFACE

Experience has become a crucial factor for employer when deciding who gets their foot in the door. It's strongly advised that students and graduates take opportunity to complete a period of work experience to ensure they have a competitive advantage over their peers.

An internship is a period of work experience offered by an employer to give students and graduates exposure to the working environment, often within a specific industry, which relates to their field of study.

Internship will develop a variety of soft skills, including communication skills, personal, effectiveness, presentation skills, creativity, problem solving and influencing skills.

'On the job' experience can be as valuable as anything learned in the studies. After all student cannot really understand what a job is all about until he worked in that environment. Internships are great opportunities to speak directly to people who have experience in the role student aspire and their knowledge of the job and working environment will give student greater understanding of what it's all about and what he need to do progress.

Student's career aspirations may change when they faced with the true realities of a role. Internships can therefore be used as a 'try before you buy' option.

An internship can give student a real insight into the world of work, allowing students to build on the theory they learnt at university and helping them to gain practical skills that will help strengthen their CV and make them more employable. Internship offers students the chance to test their skills in real-life situations, explore their career options and gain an insight into an organization or career path.

An internship is job training for white collar and professional careers. Student gains work experience through internship. Students often see it as a way to develop their capabilities by practically applying the academic elements of their degree and as an opportunity to learn about the work environment. Internships provide real world experience to those looking to explore or gain the relevant knowledge and skills required to enter into a particular career field. Internships are relatively short term in nature with primary focus on getting some on the job training and taking what is learned in the classroom and applying it into the real world.

Objectives:

- ❖ Develop the value of professionalism, love of work and commitment to people they serve.
- ❖ Feel and experience the external world of work.
- ❖ Enhancement and enrichment of knowledge and skills acquired in the classroom.
- ❖ It is a way of changing the students outlook towards life through exposure in the performance of actual work that may serve as a stepping stone for future career.
- ❖ Exposure to student- a particular job, profession or industry.
- ❖ To strengthen professional skills and inter professional relationships in professional settings.
