Principal's Desk

Greetings!

Change is inevitable and adjusting to the change is really a tough job for both the individuals and the institution

When the change is sudden or unplanned, there is resistance to change leading to tension or stress for the individuals and its reflection is seen on the performance of the individuals working in the institution. It may be in the form of procrastination, non-co-operation, delay tactics like missing files, abstaining from work and involving in spreading rumours and gossip. It affects productivity. The task of the management is to design strategies to overcome the resistance to change. Here the HR manager, to be vigilant and alert to introduce appropriate initiatives to mitigate the resistance and to counter the resistance for the smooth functioning of the institution. In all, leadership matters and its owning responsibility.

All the very best wishes

Dr. P.N. Udayachandra
